Springville correspondence Tribune, Dec. 28: John Allberg, the tailor who was brought down from Salt Lake Sunday evening by Marshal Gammell to answer to a charge of larceny for running off with his friend's money, had his hearing today and was found not guilty and was turned loose by paying the costs of court, amounting to $5.

H. M. Dougall, jr., as one of the bondsmen of George Williams, convicted of violation of the Springville prohibition law, brought the latter over to Provo Thursday evening and delivered him over to the sheriff. Williams was locked up in the county jail. The case, in which Williams was fined $60, has been appealed to the district court.

Thos. Cloward came up from Payson yesterday morning. He advises us that there is considerable activity in the Eldorado district near Payson. In the Star group, three miles from Payson, Mr. Cloward says he has in sight a three-foot vein of ore running 84 gold, 4 ounces silver and 7 per cent lead. The vein was encountered in a tunnel which tapped the vein and it is his intention to at once commence sinking a shaft to thoroughly prospect the ground. Several other properties in that section are working and with good indications. We would not be surprised if it would turn out a veritable Eldorado.

Next Thing.

Speaker.—The honorable member from Buncombe!

Congressman (speaking slow and impressively).—Mr. Speaker, I rise, as a patriotic American, to move, sir, that the bill for the improvement of our American rivers and harbors be amended by the insertion of these words: "For improving the harbor of San Juan, Puerto Rico, $100,000!" (Immense enthusiasm.)—Chicago Tribune.
